

CONDITION OF HEALTH

Geta Miron, Psychologist
Medical College of Physicians Brasov

The aim of this paper is to offer a holistic approach concerning healthy and illness status considering two points of view: a professional one based on empiricism and a popular (profane) one based on tradition and subjectivism. This critical approach started from the new initiative of the Health Ministry which is trying to depict the pathology from Romania at this time.

The view is cross-sectional between medicine, sociology and psychology and is using the bio-psycho-social model of medicine.
