

IMPORTANȚA EXAMINĂRILOR DE LABORATOR ÎN OTITELE MEDII ȘI ÎN CAZURILE COMPLICĂTE

Asist univ.dr. Dorin Codarcea-Munteanu, asist.univ.dr. Mădălina Buzescu,
Facultatea de Medicină,
Universitatea Transilvania Brașov

The presence of different bacterial and mycological findings in the otic suppurations in the ambulatory and stationary patients with acute and chronic otitis media is analyzed. We focused on comparing the incidence of this germs in two successive periods of time (1992-1994 and 1995-2001), aiming to underline the changes in prevalence and resistance to antibiotics, due primarily to the growing use of new antibiotics